

Understand the Big Picture of Education Data

AEM gives educators and researchers the whole picture of education data to fuel advancements in education. Our experts collaborate with the US Department of Education to manage more than six education data collections such as ED Facts and the Civil Rights Data Collection. We work with states, districts, and schools to improve education policies and practices via effective data use.

We also provide tailored support to education agencies reporting their data to the Department of Education, streamlining the process while boosting report quality. Quality data helps to improve education outcomes and promote access to equal education opportunities for all students.
